Leica – statement & viewing experience

When using a Leica product, its owner makes a statement. Leica Ultravid binoculars stand for master craftsmanship from Europe, manufactured under sustainable conditions. For the owner of the glass, it's an investment in durability and lasting value.

Leica long-range optics offer a very special viewing experience. Realistic impressions let the observer feel very close to the object. Sophisticated optics, extreme precision and high-end product design make this possible.

Leica on the go

The Leica Ultravid is the ideal companion for alpine vacations. Distant mountain climbers or wild chamois, just tiny dots to the naked eye, are magnified and clearly visible within the vast landscape. And travelers who prefer sailing the Caribbean will discover that the Leica Ultravid is equally at home on a yacht, bringing the beaches and cliffs close to the observer.

Leica at home

On a walk in the snowy winter forest, wildlife can be observed from a distance without disturbance. And in the garden or at the balcony feeder, native songbirds can be observed in all their detail and color. The close-up focus of the Leica Ultravid is just 2.1 meters – ideal for magnifying birds as well as smaller insects or flowers.

Leica in the city

When exploring urban areas, Leica binoculars can bring new views to light. Whether studying the skyline or noting the details of historic houses, observers discover things they never noticed before. The Leica Ultravid expands the possibilities of seeing and discovering.

Leica for leisure

Whether attending sports events, visiting a zoo, observing ships, or hiking, Leica binoculars are always a must. In a theater, concert hall, or circus, the magnified image delivered by the Leica Ultravid ensures a real “wow”. Often, other enthusiasts will also want to look through the binoculars – and thank the owner.
